

COOPER STANDARD HONORED WITH NISSAN SUSTAINABILITY AWARD

Cooper Standard was recently recognized with a Nissan Sustainability Award during the 2025 Nissan Supplier Appreciation Event in Nashville, Tennessee. According to Nissan, the special event is the global automaker's way of celebrating incredible achievements and valued partnerships with its strategic suppliers.

"This recognition reflects the dedication of our global employees who live our purpose of Creating Sustainable Solutions Together," said Patrick Clark, president, sealing systems and chief manufacturing officer, Cooper Standard. "By developing game-changing material innovations, reducing our environmental footprint, and partnering with our stakeholders, we are proud to support Nissan's vision of a sustainable and socially responsible supply chain while creating a better tomorrow for our people, customers, and communities."

The Nissan Sustainability Award reinforces Cooper Standard's ongoing commitment to sustainability through initiatives focused on reducing emissions, advancing material innovation, improving workplace safety and diversity, and supporting the communities where we operate. It highlights the Company's forward-looking approach to sustainability, guided by its purpose of Creating Sustainable Solutions Together.
